Event-Driven Simulations

Event-driven molecular dynamics (EDMD) simulations are in some cases significantly faster than more traditional force-based models. Here, a EDMD model is used to determine the effect of nano-colloidal particles on the transport properties of a fluid.

